

Claims

What is claimed is:

1. An upright book holder stand, comprising:

a rigid upright acrylic assembly consisting of three detachable sections including a square flat bottom base, a tubular hollow middle member and a square flat surface horizontal table member;

a base member having a substantial flat bottom surface, formed of molded acrylic material, a mounted square designed cup attached to flat top side and measured to hold firmly upright tubular center post member.

2. An upright book holder stand comprising:

an elongated square upright tubular shaft member of molded formed acrylic with substantial measurement smaller than bonded cup designed to fit into top and bottom ends of tubular member, therein joining and extending between said base member and said top member to form an integral unit;

a hollow supporting tubular member opens on top end with cork detachable closure to hold writing materials, or other small items for easy transport.

3. An upright book holder stand comprising:

an upper horizontal flat table top square assembly, having square cup equal in design and measurement to cup on top side of base member, permanently bonded to bottom side of top member to hold center tubular member in place.